

Editor's Comment:

here are some minor issues that should be considered:

Conclusions: authors are suggested to:

- point out the limitations of study (non-representative sample of the country, statistical methods used...)
- and recommendations should be focused on practice (e.g.: add some ideas such as: how students should control their anxiety/fear – schools should consider providing a psychologist for this work?) and research (e.g.: need of more complex statistics such as multiple regression analyses to determine which predictors has more impact; need of monitoring the teaching processes...).

References – the authors have to take a closer look to references

So, at this moment the assessment of this article would be minor revision – expecting that all my comments helped, I've attached the document with some corrections

Editor's Details:

Dr. Ana Sofia Pedrosa Gomes dos Santos
Assistant Professor, Faculdade de Motricidade Humana, Universidade de Lisboa, Portugal