I am sorry to confirm this manuscript is not acceptable and I do not recommend its publication

My congratulations to the authors for their text improvement, but unfortunately it is not suitable for publication in this journal due to the following aspects :

- 1 - No detailed informations about the case, mainly related to the treatment and follow-up were presented.
- 2 - No improvement in Discussion related to the case was included. The informations of the literature and pathophysiology were superficial and short. No comparative discussion of the literature and the present case were brought up.
- 3 - No authors personal contribution based on their experience was added.
