

Editor's Comment:

The subject of the article is interesting. But the authors must to compare their results with other from the literature to understand exactly which is the main contribution of the paper related to the other articles in this direction.

Before send a new version of the article for the review the authors must to correct the typing errors from the paper since are so many as pointed in the attach.

Then I wait for a new version of the article which is more well wrriten.
