

Editor's Comment:

I recommend accepting this paper after the author makes the editorial changes I have suggested.

In addition the title of the article needs to be changed to better describe the nature of the article. Also, the treatment provided needs to be more fully explained.

Did they resort to resection of the jaw because of the size of the lesion? Was there consideration of shrinking the size of the lesion by first performing marsupialization then enucleating it?

I agree with their treatment method but the reader needs to be informed of their treatment rationale.

Editor's Details:

Dr. James Anthony Giglio
Adjunct Clinical Professor, Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, School of Dentistry, Virginia
Commonwealth University, Virginia, USA