Compulsory REVISION comments	Interesting topic. Here are some suggestions. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1) This topic is an interesting one, the structure is good but very limited information has been provided in line with who has worked in this line of research in the past or what triggered the research.</li> <li>2) Most references have been placed in the results section as matches for previous literature. A research paper should balance it's references with other sections</li> <li>3) The abstract seems to be relatively long. It is very helpful to include but the necessary aspects of the paper in the abstract section i.e. not every single detail of the results is needed in this section but the most significant.</li> <li>4) Please check the recommended referencing styles and rectify them</li> <li>5) It is necessary to create a literature review section that can act as a base for some significant arguments on related topics.</li> <li>6) This paper does not seem to target a definite audience. Therefore, the readership might be confusing.</li> <li>7) Recommendations section is needed for future researchers on the topic.</li> </ol>	Thank you for your comments. The corrections/modifications suggested all are done
