

Editor's Comment:

The manuscript is well presented and organized. The described experiments were properly planned and executed. The results are presented in a clear way, explained and compared with other studies in the literature.

Both of the two reviewers suggested publication with minor revision. All the comments/queries suggested by the reviewers have been answered and included in the revised manuscript.

In my opinion this manuscript should be published, but there are a few specific issues the authors should address by making modifications to the manuscript.

1. Vitamin C. The 'C' is always in capital letter. Please correct this in the whole manuscript, and figure and table titles.
2. The title for Figure 6 should be: Firmness (N) of mango chips processed at three different moisture contents over six (6) months storage period.
3. The title for Figure 7 should be: Firmness (N) of mango chips processed at five different packages over six (6) months storage period.
4. Please separate Table 3 title from the text.
5. Please use the same font size and style in the whole text.
6. Sentences should not begin with the reference number. Reference numbers should be mentioned at the end of a sentence and not used as a word. Please correct.
7. In line 86, correct the reference number. It is 11.
