

Editor's Comment:

I am very disappointed about this paper. The author is obviously not willing/cannot improve the language of the paper.

What are my options?

a) Do the language corrections myself? It is really the task of the editor?

b) Ask you to send the paper to language reviewing?

c) Reject the - otherwise interesting - paper on the basis of language weaknesses?

I certainly cannot give my name to its publication in the present form.

What should I do now? Please advise.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Zsuzsanna Bacsí
Georgikon Faculty, University of Pannonia, Hungary