

Editor's Comment:

Thank you for submitting your work to Journal of Experimental Agriculture International.

In this version of the manuscript the authors revised the references following the journal style. However, there are still some points to be raised, based on the reviewers suggestions. There is still a minor error in the abstract (line 5, the word "e" must be replaced by "and"). The authors did not make this change suggested by the reviewer.

Additionally, one of the reviewers is questioning the use of the word "refrigeration" in the title. The authors justify that the cooling was only for the conservation of the fruits, therefore I agree that this word must be removed because this was not actually a variable tested.

These points must be considered by the authors before acceptance of the manuscript.
