

Editor's Comment:

After reviewing the manuscript in its original and final version, and the comments made by the reviewers, my comments are as follows:

Most comments since the beginning of the peer review tended to reject the manuscript.

In its final version, the manuscript does not have a good wording and in general does not meet the standards and scientific quality of the journal. I'm afraid I not recommend it for publication in the Asian Research Journal of Agriculture.

It was observed that it was a very poor quality article.
