|-------------------------------------|---|--|
| Compulsory REVISION comments | This study was a descriptive research that attempted to explain the current and future challenges and recent innovations of science and technologies in Indian agriculture. The research has made good attempt to review the scientific technologies and innovations in overall agriculture sector in India. However, the study did not provide clear contribution from the discussion on recent innovations of science and technologies used. Hence, the study is suggested to improve the Conclusion section including practical contribution of the study. | |
| Minor REVISION comments | Refer comments given in the manuscript. | |
