Compulsory REVISION comments	The concept of priming is very useful both for agriculture and horticulture, hence the article has good potentials for application of the results. Nonetheless, the articles have lots of grammatical flaws in the English language, most of which I highlighted in my review in the text of the manuscript. Secondly, the depth of the discussion must be improved upon. I have suggested two recent articles to help the author(s) in the revision.
Minor REVISION comments	Minor revisions are suggested in text of manuscript
Optional/General comments	The article need to be revised significantly particularly for the English grammar and technical discussion of the results.
