PART 1: Review Comments

	Reviewer's comment	Author's comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Compulsory REVISION comments	It is a very interesting work because it throws as information, for this particular case, the difference between the two techniques, which is always a point of discussion in order to find a quick method to diagnose in the field, although the gold standard method is the microscopy. In the results, It is convenient that the written part be shortened, since it is a mere repetition of what appears in the tables. It is recommended to merge tables 5 and 3. As it will be a paper, in the discussion it can be shortened more, avoiding being repetitive with the results
Minor REVISION comments	After a dot, numbers must be written Error: and microscopic methods. 5 ml of venous blood (See in the abstract) Correct: and microscopic methods. Five ml of venous blood
Optional/General comments
