

Editor's Comment:

I do not think that this manuscript can be accepted to published in AJARR. The main reason is that an influence of different drying methods on mineral composition of three accessions of roselle calyces did not explain any more in this manuscript, just as the opinion showed in Feedback_AJARR_48965_v1_Mil. In facts, the drying process is just a physical process geranlly, cannot result in a change of materials.

In addition, the fig 1-3 did not give any information valuable.
