

Editor's Comment:

I have read again the revised version of the manuscript. The English form is now acceptable, provided that the Author(s) amend "totomeric", "totomerization" and so on by changing them into the correct forms, i.e. tautomeric, tautomerism, and so on.

However, I have to note that the Author(s) have maintained the original structure of it, with only marginal amendments. So, the manuscript is largely excessive in length, and moreover the dilemma between an experimental work and a review has not been solved. In my opinion, it should be dramatically reduced in length, whereas most of the provided tables and calculations are superfluous when compared with the obtained results.
