Title of the Manuscript:	Sleep-disorders in children and adolescents
Type of Article:	Review Paper

PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
The authors need to rethink the organization of this paper. They are doing a review of sleep disorders in children and adolescents intended for what audience? The abstract needs to be succinct: background, aim, method, results, conclusions. The introduction should be short addressing the fact that this area of medicine/paediatrics is understudied. The method: How was the review done? What databases were consulted? What years? What languages? What inclusion/exclusion criteria? How many may research papers were found? Were review papers used? The findings: What was found in the areas of epidemiology, symptoms, course of symptoms, treatments, outcomes? Discussion: How do these findings compare with other reviews in this field? Which ones are new? Which pertain to which cultures/geographic regions? Which ages? Limitations: What are the limitations of this review? Conclusion: The incontrovertible findings and recommendations based on them. I can't see any improvement in this version. It remains disorganized and hard to read.	The Comments for Revision from the respected Reviewer is exactly the same as the previous Comments to which the authors here have already answered. We are not able to answer any differently.
