

Editor's Comment:

Three reviewers accept this paper for publication. The fourth reviewer considered that the database, ten years, is not long enough and he suggested a major revision. This editor, following the authors' opinion, thinks that this study may be a preliminar research paper. Consequently, it may be published. However, the word "metrological" should be replaced by "meteorological" along the text before its publication. Metrology is the science of measurement (in general), whereas meteorology refers to the chemistry and physics of the atmosphere. This paper studies some meteorological parameters.
