EDITORIAL COMMENT'S on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to editor's comments
Here are my comments in the attachments I have looked at the paper in-depth. It should be written as though it is being presented to a naïve reader or a non-specialized person interested in knowing what is currently happening (trending issues) in the field of Obstetrics and Gynaecology. At first glance, I thought this paper was a result of systematic review or at least based on several papers and opinion of many researchers in the field of obstetrics and gynaecology. . Most of the statements in the document are not well cited and mainly full of incomplete sentences which are typically what we commonly experience with clinician writings.	Dear Editor I appreciate your feedback, and wherever possible marked the changes in the revised attachment. Just for your personal reference, the technical articles and/or papers are written for specific audience. And thus, the presentation or the tone of the writing is intended to be different than a newspaper /magazine article. The article was well received by the reviews and the evidence of their appreciation is the testimony of same. Please let me know if you have any further observations in terms of the language/presentation and I will do the needful.
