Minor REVISION comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> This is an important study that shows the impact of climatic variables to the yield of Cocoa in a region in Nigeria. The methodology answers clearly the research questions. After you have diagnosed the problem by identifying that yield loss may be a problem in the future, What will be the implications of this study to stakeholders to reverse this negative trend of yield loss of Cocoa? What are the recommendations for future research? You briefly mentioned that a similar study should be done for other Cocoa producing regions in Nigeria, How about other areas for future study? 	I have gone through the manuscript and make the necessary corrections in yellow colour which are very germane to the study. Concerning the other areas, we are currently working on it.
