Compulsory REVISION comments	The particular Manuscript about the quality evaluation of tomatoes stored in two types of evaporative coolers. This article is about the designing, constructing and testing of two types of brick burnt evaporative coolers. The article was well written. But it can be embellished with some changes. The abstract can be started with the objective the study or purpose or with one or two sentences as introduction to the study. In the methodology section, it better if the particular code numbers for AOAC methods used is mentioned. In the results and discussion section, before every table a brief description of thee table can be stated to maintain the connection while reading. These are some of my comments. Otherwise this Manuscript can be accepted.
Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments
