Compulsory REVISION comments	In this study, the authors evaluated the prevalence rate of HBV in HIV infected women, supporting the previous finding that Nigeria is endemic for HBV. The topic of the manuscript is extremely important to develop new guidelines, especially in developing countries, aimed at reinforcing biomonitoring and searching for HBV co-infection among HIV patients. Nonetheless, the manuscript needs English editing. Discussion, in particular, should be revised given the presence of an excessive use or repetitions such as "this study". I highlighted my comments and revisions in the manuscript in track change mode.
